Intensive Course in Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation

MARCH • JUNE • OCTOBER

at the
Berenson-Allen Center for Noninvasive Brain Stimulation
Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center-East Campus

Program Directors:
Alvaro Pascual-Leone, M.D., Ph.D.
&
Dylan Edwards, PhD

COURSE DESCRIPTION & OBJECTIVES
This intensive course provides a unique opportunity for hands-on learning of the basic principles, standards of use, and potential applications of TMS in clinical neurophysiology, cognitive neuroscience, neurology, and psychiatry. It is a one-week course offered three times per year. The course is conducted in small groups of up to 18 participants with formal teaching sessions and ample practical exposure. At the end of the course participants will have learned and directly experienced how to determine motor threshold, how to record motor evoked potentials, how to conduct cortical mapping, paired-pulse, and rTMS studies. Participants will have also learned how to design TMS studies, integrate TMS with other imaging modalities, write TMS protocols, and interpret findings of TMS studies.

ACCREDITATION
Harvard Medical School is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians. Harvard Medical School designates this educational activity for a maximum of 33.5 category 1 credits toward the AMA Physician’s Recognition Award. Each physician should claim only those credits that he/she actually spent in the educational activity.
